The Oddities of Fashion.

French vs. English Dressing.

There is a saving as old as fash ont of the world as out of fashion."

As truth will and shall prevail, and as this idea has withstood the storms of ages, I am inclined to believe it. This is not an age of oddities-at least, in the world of fashion. Though some may dispute this last assertion, yet do I repeat only objectionable feature being the it. But let me make my statement low corsage. #### Now To the Work!

Now that a Republican ticket has been placed in the field, there remains nothing but hard, untiring work for the parcy to aid its nominees to obtain their election. It chosen to lead the fight as it would be demoralizing to the mass of voters to fail in putting forth the proper efforts to secure success. All the conditions of victory under which Republicans have fought in the past have changed, since they the powerful agencies of the whole State government against them. are best tested in a crisis when it is called on to contend against overted majority in the State. We with spasmodic or half way work, relying on the plea that do what we rendered ineffective by frand and must assume that the administration, Democratic as it is, will give it justice, let it burt whom it may. No battle in politics has yet been won by stopping to count the superior strength of the enemy. And while it is well enough to know this, it should only be to draw out the proper amount of determination and energy to conquer at all hazards. In thirty of the fiftyeight parishes of the State we have undoubted majorities with a fighting chance in a few others. By system and proper direction, the campaign committee can force the enemy to disclose its tactics in all these parishes as to whether it will suffer our voters to exercise the rights of freemen or subject them to the outrages which have disgraced the Louisiana Democracy bitherto. All the Republicans can reasonably expect is to bring out their full vote, to have a fair count, and they will be willing to abide the result. But all this can only come of hard, untiring work. If the Republicans have placed their excellent ticket in the field simply for buncombe, it were far better they had not nominated a ticket. carried the State beyond violent and legerdemain practices, let each We acknowledge the receipt of a man take off his coat and roll up pamphlet on "The Negro Exodus" his sleeves and work, work, until

FROM NEW YORK.

The annexed letter, though written to our late associate editor and never intended perhaps for public perusal, is well worth printing and, as such, we produce it:

NEW YORK, Oct. 22, 1879. DEAR SIR-I am delighted to see as I do in the New York Times of this morning that you are on the Republican ticket of Louisiana. Whatever the result it cannot hurt you in the least. Defeat in the count, or general deviltry in Louisiana methods, is probably what you may expect in this thing. Still, you cannot tell what is in store for you. Probably the Republicans of the South are at their wits' end to know what to do. But there can be no doubt but what these of your State have been guided by extraor dinary wisdom and that simple fact Gov. Michael Hahn, is a host within itself. Such wisdom of itself will carry thousands of votes that you little dream of; perhaps the tide will turn entirely in your favor. Do the right and do it nobly and you have nothing to fear. > Woman.-I tell you women are more prudent than men. I tell you, as a rule, women are more faithful than men-teu times as faithful as men. I never saw a man pursue his wife into the very ditch and dust of degradation, and take her in his arms. I never see a man stand at the shore where she had been morally wrecked, waiting for the waves to bring back even her corpse to his arms; but I have seen woman, with her white arms, lift ST. MARY'S BOYS' ACADEMY, man from the mire of degradation, though he were an angel.-Ingerthat has governed the Louisianian from the beginning.

The necessity of a closer intercourse between the two classes—the colored and white people of our State—we rejoice to know, is fast becoming manifest; and, the recent emancipation of our people from the domination of political task-masters renders this desideratum possible.

HARMONY AND MODERATION

ong all classes and between all interests; kindness and forbearance fostered where m lignity and resentment reigned, and a common service of all the people will elevate our loved state to an envisible and rightful position among her sisters in the development of her boundless resources and matchless advantages.

AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

The LOUISIANIAN offers rare advantages to the merchant and business man. Our large and weekly increasing circulation within the State, and throughout the country, renders the service of our columns particularly desirable.
